nting n Better Feeling Toward this Country—The Spanish Mexicans Civing Way to the Mexicans of Indian Blood. MONTERREY, Nov. 2.—The strained relations between Americans and Mexicans, observable this place for several months past, have greatly relaxed of late. The completion of the Mexican National Railway to Saltillo, the captal of this State of Nuevo Leon, has had some effect is bringing this about. It has removed from this neighborhood a body of roughs of both nationalities. Somehow, the Mexican National people have not been so fortunate as the Mexican Central in the composition and management of their working forces. In the construction of this road, the working forces have excited histility among the natives by their conduct. In my travels through the States of Chihuahua and D mange I do not find the same thing to true of the Mexican Central's force. The common people up there have a saying which characterizes that line as the "railroad of the gentionen." Down here the characterization Maxican National is both untranslatable and unmentionable. Very much of the animosity that is feit, whether expressed or restrained. as Americans, had its immediate incepthen in the rough character and acts of rallroad This is passing away. Behind it there course, the Mexican Chauvinism, which finds root in patriotic self-love. Monterey was

One striking proof of this is the the ago. One striking proof of this is the test La Revista, the bitter antagonist and of our countrymen, is reported and best our countrymen, is reported and best is be about to change its policy. The railroad is no longer that curists in any considerable numbers, are too commonly indifferent to the prejuctive even personal rights of the Mexican look but there is a steady accession of business, who are looking soberly and quietly extinces of successful investments. The final wholesale merchants here and here is a hocking against the pricks of a new arctal system, while the heroasing proses of the retaillors is making friends for the out, and, of course, for the Americans, ear of erimes and assaults occasionally thanericans and Mexicans against other than solour, and shadon. I have encountered it, met no dangers except from the less on one occasion, and have always the Mexican people hospitable and tall, months ago it certainly looked as if the norths ago it certainly looked as if the

At this writing, the control to great disturbances, if not by open visualizary efforts. At this writing, the control was always to be the case. Gen. Perfironalist for each of the case of the great and respected in equal degree. It we have it white pered that after all he may to be a candidate, but that President Gondon, the present incumbent, will be put for at for reclection. This idea is based on the count that Diazis too deeply interested permit in the principle of the Gonzales administration. Understanding the sensitiveness of the urrow Mexican patriolism, in which he to be the railing spirit of the Gonzales administration. Understanding the sensitiveness of the urrow Mexican patriolism, in which he to be extended the principal and flowing in would of sensity be greatly disturbed if there should serious election disorders.

But whether it be Diaz or Gonzales, the real sear would be Diaz. Trevino is out of the fact there is a proposed to see his way to the fact there is the present disorders, the real sear would be present Governor of Chilhunhua. Torrass, perfectly its present Governor of that State, who would see to be President; is too old and too corrupt or present Governor of that State, who would see to be President, is too old and too corrupt or success even here.

It must be remembered that the later leaders, if Mexico are nearly all from the northern estion, and they all have more or less Indian cod in them. This is a very imperiant election of races may explain this.

There are now nearly ten and a half millions of races may explain this.

There are now nearly ten and a half millions of races may explain this.

1.877, divided as follows:

It is the Indian and the mixed races and peoples that are rising now. The railroad will prove at first almost revolutionary in its effects, and the reason for this is not difficult to percein. Take, for instance, what I was toid recein. Take, for instance, what I was toid recein; by one of the general officers of the Mexhear tentral. He said that up to date of conversation that company had within its northern division employed, first and last, about 40,000 of the common Mexican laborers. Most of these had followed the road out of their districts, and were by that fact released from the last remnants of becoming or debt slavery. That had been long since abolished by law, except that a local Judge or administrator had the right to enforce a lien for food and other supplies within his district. It needs no words to be how great an upheaval this changing the whereabouts of large muchers must prove in a country like Mexico.

Next in order comes the increase of wages, which his gone on wherever the railroad has reached. The increase is never less a than 100.

Next in order comes the increase of wages, which his gone on wherever the radicoad has reached. The increase is never less than 100 per cent, and it often reaches 300 per cent, which is gone or where the old and pearly-ridden figures of the bast. Movement and more money are important factors in the social-economic revolution now in progress here.

Then comes the important fact that the systems of trade and traffic are being entirely changed. The radicoad is rapidly creating a commercial and town middle class in Mexico. The great wholesalers, usually Germans or Eaglishmen, married to Mexican wives, have different methods. They have grown very rich, a me of them enormously so, and all the clerks and traders of the country were practically their clients and servants. It is from this class, the army officers, and the clericals that papers like Let Receive to that the results of the country were practically the clients and servants, it is from this class, the army officers and the clericals that papers like Let Receive the and the traders of the results of the country were practically the telesconding and the clarity of the results of the support. It is easy to deduce from all this that, given time and peace there must be a great change ere long in Mexican Mexican descriptions.

The person alleged to have been libelled is a respected young lady of good family, to whom Frazier, who is a widower, has long paid much attention. It was supposed that they were engaged to marry, but it appears, on the contrary, that Frazier received the mitten, and a gentleman of New York won the affections of the young lady, and will soon wed her.

Frazier was very much incensed at the failure of his lovemaking, and he wrote to the young lady to return some rings he had given her, and threatened, if they were not returned or he was not reimbursed for them, he would make disagreeable disclosures. The rings, however, had been stolen by burglars, who entered the house of the young lady's lather some time ago, and so Frazier's request could not be complied with. Frazier then demanded $21 for the rings, and declared if he did not receive the money his disclosures would be made at a certain time. No money was paid to him, and when the time arrived an anonymous letter was received by the young lady's mother.

The letter is long, and contains the vilest accusations. They shocked the family of the young lady, and, believing Frazier to be the writer, they decided to seek redress in the courts. The letter was received at the time that Frazier threatened in his provious letters to make his disclosures. He denies, however, that he wrote the letter. Frazier has been in jail two weeks, being unable to procure ball. in Mexican life and habits—a change which must bring them nearer to us.

As the classes to be most deeply affected are of the native and mixed stocks, it may be well to look into their ethnic conditions and localists also a little more minutely. There are still stocken in the republic notless than thirty-five different dialects. The great subdivisions of the Indo-Mexican tongues are stated by Mexican scholars as follows: Nahoa, Mexican 1970er, Acaves, Ximo, Tebaca, Othorm, Huax-Sas, The various pure Indian class or tribes all divided as follows:

As the time for his trial drew near, circumstances pointed strongly toward another person as being the burging, and Freeman's acquittal was generally expected. To the surprise of every one, when he was called for trial he entered a plea of guilty. In doing so he broke down, and begged the Court to be lenient to him. He was sentenced to eligiteen months' imprisonment in the Eric county penitentiary.

In March, 1878, a strong petition was forwarded to Gov. Robinson from Allegany county asking for Freemap's pardon. The Governor notified the prison authorities, and directed that the usual medical examination of the prisoner be made. Dr. Sinnock then learned that Freeman was a woman. She was at once removed to the women's quarters of the prison, she begged that the fact of her disguise should not be made public, and told the prison authorities the story of her life. Her name, she said, was Mary Ann Schnefer. She was born on the ocean in 1855, while her parents were emigrating to this country. After arriving in America they lived in Aligany county. When she was five years old her father died, and her mother married again. When she was ten years of age her stepfather told her she must tearn her own living, as he was unable to support her. She went out as a servant, but, being large for her age and very strong, she made up her mind to put on boys clothing, in order that she might earn larger wages. Her mother was the only one who knew of this determination. She worked for farmers for a season or two, and then spent a season on the Frie Cannal. She then returned to the vicinity of her mother's house. No one recognized her, and she worked for ten years for different farmers.

When she joined the church in 1875 she longed to resume the clothing of her sex, but she had passed for a man so long that she was ashamed to confess the truth. She declared that she was perfectly innocent of the crime for whi not entirely gone.

We visited the birthplace of Alexander the Great, and went to the foot of Mount Olymbus. I went to see the monks of Athos, who have been established a thousand years and within whose precincts no woman ever set foot.

We went to the seems of the Siege of Troy and saw the ruins of at least two remote civilizations. We sailed along the shores of the Black Sea, from which now Great Britain gets food as well as from us, and from whence ancient Rome fed itself, for it was the granary of the Romans. During all the trip, which was made largely in a private steamer, with leisure to study men and manners. Leams to the conclusion that the greatest miracle of our time and the most valuable treasure which mankind has ever discovered is the Government of the United States, in which the checks and Islances are so arranged that while progress is not only possible, but its results certain, the prejudices of popular passion are kept in check, and only those measures which are best calculated to promote the general welfare can by any possibility receive the sanction of legislation and of permanent public judgment. I come back not only proud of my country, but conscious more than ever of the duty which rests upon every one of its citizons to preceive constitutional government in the form and according to the spirit of its conception and organization. It is the result not merely of the wisdom of our fathers, but of a fortunate chain of circumstances which never occurred before in the history of the world, and can by no possibility occuragain.

"This Patti story made me laugh all day. I sent it to Patti. She laughed. My friends laughed. It would make a cat hough. It was a desperate canard started by the enemy. I tell you what it is, my boy, that new-fangled arrangement for Abbey's orchestra under that vast wilderness of stage is my salvation. They spent $120,000 blasting out rocks to get a stage with a cellar depth of thirty feet, and put the orchestra in the cellar. The result, in addition to breaking them up financially, is that all the sound is swallowed up by the cellar-singers, band, and everything. I am magnanimous enough to suggest a remedy to save Abbey, who is a pretty good sort of fellow. It is a well-known fact in acousties that if you put glass salteellars under the legs of a plane it increases the sonority of the instrument. The same thing is true of singers. If Abbey will shoe his tenors and prima donnas with salteellars their voices can be heard. This improvement can be made readily he can get the salteellars anywhere—and the public will be mystaled and gratified by the great change. Science is a wonderful thing. Abbey needs its aid to enable him to give opera up town in that Breadway pitfall."

"Patti really did eatch cold." said a friend of the diw's at the Windson. "She would have endangered her voice if she had tried to sing." first there is a great danger menacing the progress of liberty win Europe. As I have said, in France popular will expresses itself practically without check. In England the checks which have beretofore existed are being rapid for the libers of Commons will then be the sole register of the popular will, without the restraining influence of a body chosen by a separate method, or by an executive selected for a different term of office than that which is assigned to the two legislative bodices. THE PROTESTANT FESTIVAL. Overflowing the Academy at the Evangelical

The Evangelical Alliance commemorated last evening the Luther anniversary with a meeting that overflowed the Academy of Music. Auditors sat on the railings of the parquet and of the proscenium boxes, and encroached on the stage soats reserved for the Oratorio Society and the clergy. Bishop Simpson offered prayer, and the Oratorio Society, under the lead of Dr. L. Damrosch, sang the chorus from "Elijah," "Thanks be to God."

President John Jay gave a sketch of the objects of the Alliance, and said that it had helped defeat in the last Legislature an act falsely endefeat in the last Legislature an act falsely entitled nn act to promote freedom of religious worship, but in reality intended as a covert measure to advance the interests of a part of the Roman Catholic Church.

The Rev. William M. Taylor, D. D. said that Luther unscaled for us the fountain of Serinture, and by glorifying and unfolding Christ, the mediator, discelled the darkness and put aside all that had been wrongly substituted between man and his God. Whatever may have been the great work of other reformers, it was to Luther that the world was indebted for rostoring to the light the long-lost Bible. Our forefathers who settled this country brought not a church, but the Book, and it was that fact that made the difference between North America and the South American States.

The audience stood while Dr. Damrosch led his immense choir in singing Luther's hymn.

The Rev. Dr. Phillips Brooks said that the soul rower of Luther was religious service of God. His bitterness of opposition to those who were not religious chough for him was grotesque. He once said: "When I pray it is for a curse on Erasmus." There were two war cries that were the main ideas of Luther's thoughts. One was the freedom of human intelligence and the other was justification by faith. His idea of justification by faith was mystic, not dogmatic; it was the result of experience rather than of reason. It was Luther and Cromwell who opened the vast doors that led the human race from the old into the new.

BIG FAILURE IN THE FUR TRADE. H. C. Tillinghnot & Co. Suspend with Linbil-

CHICAGO, Nov. 13 .- H. C. Tillinghast & Co., dealers in furs, pelts, and leather, have made an assignment to Charles F. Grey, President of the Hide and Leather Bank. The assignee, when asked concerning the suspension, said the announcement had come so suddenly that he was unable to make any statement as to the amount of liabilities or assets. The assignment was a general one, there being no preferred creditors.

Hugh A. White, attorney for the firm, said the suspension was due to the fact that they had sent large sums of money te Montana for furs, but had received only a limited supply in return, and also to the depressed state of the leather and fur trade for the past five months. The limbilities would be about $300,000 and the full value of the assets about $400,000, but it would be hard to tall how much would be realized. He hoped to see the firm resume business.

A husiness, man who is accurainted with the realized. He hoped to see the firm resume business.

A business man who is acquainted with the affairs of the firm said that the real cause of the fallure was that they had too many irons in the life. Among their ventures is a silver mine in Montana, in which, it is said, much money has been sunk.

A decier in the same line of business said:

"Their sales were about $2,000,000 a year. Their trouble dates back two or three years, and it is the result of doing more business than their capital would admit of. That, together with the poor health of Mr. Tillinghast, brought about the failure. He has been in the fur trade for thirty years. It is simply the result of too much expansion, and they had to submit to the inevitable.

The failure of this firm closes up the branch house in Dubuque, which took all the hides, pelts, and tallow the butchers of that city had to sell on contract. One of the banks holds their paper for a small amount, which has been partly secured by an attachment levied on the stock in the store there.

Railroad Company desired to obtain control of the New York and New England.

Respecting the apparent misapprehensions regarding the guarantee by the Dominion Government of a minimum annual dividend of 3 % cent, upon the stock of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company an officer of the company said to-day that the guarantee applies to the entire $100,000,000 capital stock, and not to a part of it only. The statement that it is to apply to a part may have arisen from the fact that only a part has been issued. The charge that the guarantee was obtained through the agency of officers of the Company, who are also officers of the Government, is met by the fact that none of the officers of the company, who are also officers of the Government, is met by the fact that none of the officers of the company that no Government positions, and it is distinctly provided in the acts relating to the company that no Government officer, including members of Parliament, can be an officer or stockholder in the company. The increase of the capital from $25,000,000 to $100,000,000 was made in order to obviate the issuing of boads, the projectors preferring to construct the road from the proceeds of stock rather than place a mertgage lieu upon the property. The increase was in no sense a "watering" process, and the officers of the company claim that it has received in cash the largest amount obtainable for every share issued. An announcement of the guarantee was made in Canada to-day by the Government.

With the advant of C'Leary, pedestrian stock has taken quite an upward turn. On Thursday tast a four cornered match was made, in which Daniel backed lunself and an unknown who is pretty generally understood to be the colored waker Harti against two local unknowns, who are as shrewdly guessed to be liarriman and Melintre, the latter two being backed by three cilizens of San Francisco. The stakes are put down at $2,380, balf of that amount having been deposited at the Picific Life office on the day the match was made.
